FOREWORD

Middlesex County, Virginia was formed from Lancaster County in 1673. The earliest wills are recorded in the first Order Book dated 1673 - 1680. From 1680 to 1698 there are no will books extant. Middlesex County Will Book A starts with 1698 and, due to an error when this book was rebound, the wills pages are not in numerical order. The next will book covers the years 1713 - 1724 and some of the wills are lost for even this period of time along with some of the remaining wills being damaged. The next will book does not start until 1740. Book D, 1748 - 1760 lacks its first pages and there are no records for 3 Jan 1748 - 7 Mar 1748.

Although the above record of missing wills may seem like a major catastrophe, this book includes the "recording" of most of those missing wills, inventories and accounts as they were recorded in the extant Order Books. (For the first time, the present day reader has an almost complete guide to those who died and had either wills or inventories recorded during the several "missing time periods" even though the deceased person may not have drawn up a formal will). Fortunately, the loss of both the will book and the order book for the same years did not occur very often and this book fills in many of the blanks as it is a record of most of the wills, inventories and accounts (plus an added dividend of the names of guardians and their wards) that occured in those "missing years". No attempt has been made to "insert" the Order Book entries into the blank years for wills... rather, the extant wills are abstracted first (see Table of Contents) and then the orders are abstracted for the appropriate years.

There are a number of other abstracts from books and papers concerning Middlesex County included in this book. By using the index of names of over 8,000 individuals, the careful researcher should be able to find many clues to help make the trip through Middlesex County Wills more profitable than has been possible in the past.

All of the will and order books are on microfilm but the first three items on the Table of Contents and the last item can only be found in the Archives Division of the Virginia State Library, Richmond, Virginia.

NOTE

SURRY COUNTY, as it now is, was originally the part of James City County that lay on the south side of the James River. Surry County was formed out of James City County in 1652, and some of the settlers at Jamestown owned land on the Surry side and some of the colonists at Surry owned land at Jamestown. Most of these people were from England, adventurers seeking their fortune in a strange land.

THE WILLIAM EATON FAMILY OF WARREN COUNTY.

COL. WILLIAM EATON patented lands in what was then GRANVILLE COUNTY in 1746 about the time the county was erected from territory taken from EDGECOMBE. He was Colonel of the GRANVILLE COUNTY Regiment of Militia (p. 291), and was the main leader in the organization of the County with EDWARD JONES (p. 209). He died in 1759 and his will was probated in GRANVILLE COUNTY on March 20th of that year (p. 42-43 of this work and Grimes' Abstracts p. 108.) His will names children:

1. William Eaton
2. Thomas Eaton
3. Charles Rust Eaton
4. Jane Eaton married Col. Nathaniel Edwards
5. Anne Eaton married Andrew Haynes
6. Mary Eaton married Robert Jones .
7. Sarah Eaton married Charles Johnson.
8. Elizabeth Eaton married Daniel Weldon.
9. Martha Eaton.

The family genealogy of COL. WILLIAM EATON will be found on page 43 of the Index & Digest to Hathaway's made a part of this work when finally completed. The descendants of Col. William Eaton (some of them, at least) still reside in WARREN COUNTY. The old Eaton home is located at 306 North Main Street in the town of WARRENTON. It was built in 1843 by a WILLIAM EATON SR. who was perhaps a grandson or great grandson of COL. EATON of the above will. He is accredited with being perhaps the wealthiest owner of lands and slaves on the Roanoke River & is said to have built this place as a summer home for his daughter ELIA.

ELIA EATON, in his old age, became the wife of HON. PETER HANSBOROUGH BELL, a retired Governor of Texas (1849-1854) who in his older days became impoverished, which fact, when made known to the people of Texas, resulted in a Legislative pension being granted to tide him over the remainder of his life, though he did not live long afterwards. PETER HANSBORO BELL was a native of Virginia and related to the family of the same name who settled in GRANVILLE COUNTY. (See page 214).

The 734 men and officers of COLONEL WILLIAM EATON'S Granville County Regiment here listed came from the territory represented by the black boundary lines of the above map. The list comprises, in our judgment, a practically complete roll of all of the able bodied men, subject to military duty in GRANVILLE COUNTY, North Carolina, at that time. So far as we have been able to ascertain no earlier list of the first citizenship of the county can be found.

Roads

March 20, 1759. "Wm. Hicks is appointed Overseer of the Road in the room of Darwin Elwic from the Court house to S't. Georges Chappel." Just before the last three words are the words "Fishing Creek" erased by a line run through them. Possibly the Fishing Creek Chappel was never the Court house; it may have been beyond St. George's Chappel; or the name St. Georges Chappel may have been changed from Fishing Creek. I think they were two distinct places. It may be, and perhaps it is the fact, that "Fishing Creek" refers simply to the creek; as in another place I find that Darwin Elwic is appt'd overseer from the Court house to "Fishing Creek."

Columbia County was named in honor of Christopher Columbus, and was cut off from Richmond County, December 10, 1790.

Richmond, an original County, was created by the Act of February 5, 1777, from lands of the Creek cession, May 20, 1733, which was organized as the Parish of St. Paul in 1758.

Many of these marriage records were on slips of paper filed in the Courthouse at Appling, the County seat. The records are faded and fragile, the handwriting most difficult to read, and in a few cases was impossible to decipher.

Additional information from other sources has been added, and in some instances where mention of someone, or someone of the same name (such as in a will, or other document), the information is given as a "clue" only, and is stated as probably, or "prob." Further proof will be needed.

The 1818 Map was prepared by Daniel Sturges for Eleazer Early, and was made from actual surveys and other documents. The original was engraved by Daniel Harrison, Savannah, Georgia, 1818.

Remnant Tax Digest

Leaves Gone Front and Back

EXPLANATORY

This is the first tax digest found in the court house, and was taken to give a practically complete census of the heads of families of that date, to identify their lands as headrights, and possible bounty grants for Revolutionary service, and to replace in a measure the census of 1790, all of which for Georgia was destroyed by the British during the War of 1812 in Washington, D. C. There is no complete digest until 1802, only a few pages left in the interim. The remnants for 1792, 1793, 1794 have been published in "Some Tax Digests of Georgia" Ruth Blair, State Historian and Archivist, and give valuable information.

ORIGINAL PAPERS

The people of Wilkes county and all descendants of the early settlers of the county, whether residents of our own Empire State of the South, the crowded centers of the north and east, the fertile deltas of the Mississippi, in sight of the snow capped Rocky Mountains, midst the golden orange groves of California, or beyond the domain of our beloved America, owe a debt of gratitude to Sarah Quinn Smith, herself a scion of the very cream of the pioneers of this historic area, who with no thought of renumeration, actuated by a passionate desire to preserve the history of her beloved state and county, rescued these priceless original papers from further loss, and made them available for publication. To her only is due the credit for their restoration and preservation.

The following abstracts were made from these original papers, stored in utmost confusion in attic and cellar of both the old and new courthouses. No doubt thousands were lost, destroyed by vermin, burned as trash, and stolen by vandals. Nothing we can do now could possibly replace them for the use and instruction of present and future generations. We can only register their loss as a tragedy with similar losses in many other old counties of Georgia.

Wilkes county was the scene of stirring events. The few records touching the Revolutionary period give us reason to believe there were others in existence. If such papers had been preserved, they would have made a wonderful contribution to the glorious history of Georgia.

The authenticity of these documents can not be questioned. The returns of administrators, executors, guardians etc are the identical papers returned to the Register of Probate for record, in the older papers the actual receipts of heirs, legatees and wards in their own handwriting. To a modern doctor, the accounts of the doctors of that day would give an insight into their methods of treatment probably not found elsewhere, certainly not in published history. Little of this material was recorded in books, which still further enhances its value. No price could possibly be placed on these original papers. Nothing short of their being carefully arranged, and placed in the fire proof vault of the Judge of Court of Ordinary should be considered for a moment, regardless of expense. They fairly scintillate with the forgotten history of the past. No modern fiction excels them in tales of human interest. They are all that is left to tangibly link us with the pioneers whose ashes have made sacred this historic ground, and whose descendants, legion in number, are scattered to the ends of the earth.

HOUSTON PUBLIC LIBRARY

F O R E W O R D

This book bearing the title of INFORMATION ON SOME GEORGIA PIONEERS is based on a listing of 25,000 land lottery registrants in 1805. The family heads, widows and orphans, were then living in the 25 original Georgia counties in eastern section of the State.

Indeed they were pioneers by virtue of the eligibility rules set forth for participation in the lottery system, making available 202-1/2-acre lots in the newly created counties of Baldwin, Wilkinson and Wayne.

A book entitled 1805 GEORGIA LAND LOTTERY compiled by Virginia S. Wood and Ralph V. Wood was published in 1964. This issue gave an alphabetical listing of the participants, the counties where they lived at the time and their ticket numbers.

It was decided to examine Georgia's statistical records available and match whatever information that was found with the named registrants. The time required for this project spanned more than two years. All data found, regardless of how insignificant it may have been, was placed alongside names of registrants. The end results was this 216-page book, with an index added.

Working with statistics provides margin for errors: Common name duplications, generation gaps, etc. It will be noted the term "m. 2nd, or 2nd, w." was used often. It was done to standardize multiple marriages. In reality it may have been a third or fourth. On the other hand, it could have been that of a son, or a person bearing the same name, or one of a later generation.

There will be disclaimers and calls for proof, plus requests for sources. Since it would require re-tracing, compliance is impossible. The accountability of the 25,000 registrants is near 50 percent. The degree of accuracy outweighs what is doubtful.

The best method is using this issue is to make comparisons with the listings in 1805 GEORGIA LAND LOTTERY, which most libraries have. Cross-checking and also the use of the index in INFORMATION ON SOME GEORGIA PIONEERS is recommended for allied family connections.

The use of abbreviations has been limited:

It will be noted that a number of warrants were dated prior to the creation of Elbert County in 1790. Such warrants were filed in Wilkes County and after the creation of Elbert all warrants appertaining to lands located in the new county were transferred to it. It is, of course, a fact that little care has been taken of these documents and in consequence many hundreds of them have in the course of almost 150 years been lost and destroyed.

gade, Hood's Division, Longstreet's Corps. He was wounded at Malvern Hill by grapeshot, in the week's fighting around Richmond in 1862. He suffered greatly from this wound, but rejoined his comrades in arms as soon as the authorities would permit. Two years later he was wounded again in the fighting on North Anna River in Virginia, and lost a leg as a result of this wound.

Returning to his native home he faced the responsibilities of peaceful pursuits with the same determination and courage that had characterized his career as a soldier. He efficiently served his family and friends and neighbors and his county as Clerk of the Superior and City Courts for twenty years with modesty, honesty, efficiency and self-sacrificing fidelity, until summoned on May 25, 1900, to come up higher and bivouac with the dead "on fame's eternal camping ground." Some 15 years before the summons came, he united with the First Methodist Church of Elberton, and lived a consistent Christian life, and died as he had lived, in the service of Elbert County. The funeral services were conducted at the home by Revs. Sam R. Belk and H. W. Williams, pastors of the First Methodist and First Baptist churches of Elberton, and his body was laid to rest in Elmhurst Cemetery, with such worthy citizens as H. J. Brewer, James McIntosh, P. P. Proffitt, W. D. Tutt, McAlpin Arnold, and Abda Oglesby as active pallbearers.

On December 9, 1868, Richard Madison Willis was married to Lucy Glenn Broach. To this union were born ten children, seven daughters and three sons: 4—Minnie, 4—Mamie, 4—Julia, 4—Rosa, 4—Lucy, 4—Albert, 4—Ernest, 4—Charles, 4—Elizabeth, 4—Willie, and 4—Ethel.

WOOLRIDGE

William Woolridge, of Elbert County, was the son of John Woolridge of Chesterfield County, Virginia. He is mentioned in his father's will.

John Woolridge took up a land grant in Henrico County, Virginia, in the year 1725. He is the ancestor of the family of Virginia. His brothers were Thomas, Edward and William, who lived in Goochland County, Virginia.

William Woolridge was in Virginia as early as 1622. He served as an officer in several of the Colonial Wars.

The earliest records of the Woolridge family are found in Chestershire, England, where William of that name was living in the reign of Edward the Confessor.

This is an amorail bearing family and the names William, John, Thomas, and Edward have been used by successive generations from the founding to the present date.

William Woolridge, Sr., the father of Gibson Woolridge, came to Surrey County, North Carolina, from Chesterfield County, Virginia, in 1773 as deeds of record in the former county show. He served as a member of the grand jury of Surrey County as shown in Book 1775-1778, Index of Colonial and State Records, Vol. XXX, page 424. William Woolridge was appointed Captain of his district in 1778 and retained this position until his removal to Georgia. This William married Sarah Flournoy, a Hugenot, who came to Virginia in 1700.

Edmund Woolridge, a brother of William, Sr., married Mary Flourney, also a daughter of Francis.

William Woolridge, Sr., was accompanied to Elbert County by his son, Gibson, and a son-in-law by the name of Hudspeth. They arrived in Georgia in the winter of 1783, as deed records in Book C-P 103 in office of Clerk of the Superior Court of Elbert County shows.

Gibson Woolridge served as Justice of the Peace in Surrey County, North Carolina, during 1782 and in the same capacity in Wilkes County, Georgia, in 1786 and 1794. He was a delegate to the Constitutional Convention of Georgia, held in 1798 from Lincoln County.

Gibson Woolridge married in 1775 Lucy Elizabeth Hudspeth, the daughter of Ralph Hudspeth.

The children of Major Gibson Woolridge were:

John Woolridge, Lieutenant-Colonel, Lincoln County, Georgia, Militia, 1797. He was born 1776 and died in Abbeville County, South Carolina, in 1817. He was the father of one son, William, and six daughters.

Thomas Woolridge, born 1778. In 1827 was in Pickens County, Alabama. Died in Texas.

Elizabeth Woolridge, born 1786; married Samuel Linton Jr., of Abbeville County, South Carolina.

Lucy Woolridge married Mr. Hudson, of Elbert County, Georgia.

Sarah Flourney Woolridge, born June 12, 1788, married Hudson M. Pitman in 1815, and had the following children: Susan, Mary, Rebecca, Fotunatus, Nancy Eliza and John B.

Robert Woolridge married (1) Elizabeth Kellum; (2) Susannah Ball.

Mary Ann Woolridge married Benjamin Murray, of Lincoln County, Georgia, and have many descendants.

Sarah Flourney Woolridge, daughter of William Woolridge, married David Hudspeth in Surrey County, North Carolina.

William Woolridge, second son of William and Sarah Flourney Woolridge, remained in North Carolina and was appointed to the staff of Robert Williams when he was Commissioner Governor of the Mississippi Territory. His son, John, was a Captain in the Mexican War.

Edward Woolridge, youngest son of William and Sarah Flourney Woolridge, remained in North Carolina and his name is found in the Census of 1790.

Thomas F. Woolridge, son of William and Sarah, married Cheriah Davis, a daughter of Absolom Davis, of Elbert County, Georgia.

Various standard histories of Georgia, or of a portion thereof, published both before and after the foregoing lists were compiled include references to additional persons with a Revolutionary background who became residents of Elbert County or who were already residents of the area from which it was created. In the latter category is Nancy Hart, a cross-eyed sharpshooter whose feat in single-handedly capturing six British soldiers is legendary. The names of the following additional Revolutionary soldiers* have survived:

While Richard Tyner was in S. C., fighting under the command of Col. Dooly, Indians raided his home, killed and scalped his wife, dashed the baby's brains out against a tree, and carried daughters Mary and Tamar off to their village. Noah, the only other child at home at the time, managed to save himself by hiding in the hollow of a tree. For many years thereafter, the tree was called "Noah's Ark." Several years later an Indian Trader, John Monack, managed to buy Mary from the Indians, and later married her, but they refused to let him have Tamar, as they planned to burn her alive. An old Indian Squaw warned Tamar, and helped her escape. She hid a canoe, in which food had been placed, and after the braves were sound asleep, helped Tamar get the canoe launched. She floated down the Chattahoochee by night, hiding by day, fearful of being discovered by braves that might have been near the river, finally reaching Apalachicola, then sailed to Savannah and with help from many sympathetic people, eventually managed to get back to Elbert County, where she married and became the mother of several children. (See Moses Hunt sketch)

PREFACE

Elbert County is one of the very early Georgia counties, having been created 10 December 1790 from Wilkes County, itself an original county created by the First Georgia Constitution of 1777 from vast tracts of land known as "The Ceded Lands" acquired from the Cherokees and Creeks by a treaty in 1773 . In 1811 and 1819, land was given up by Elbert to help form Madison County, and in 1837, some was given back to Elbert by Madison. Then, in December, 1853, Hart County was formed from land taken from Elbert and Franklin Counties, and through the years, some other parcels have been exchanged with Hart. When this happened, though the families had not moved their place of residence, their place to report legal matters changed. Since there were no major physical barriors between these counties, movement back and forth was common. In fact, in the case of the town of Royston, the county lines go right through the town. But Madison and Hart were not the only recipients of Elbert County citizens. Through the "Headright", "Bounty Grant", and "Land Lottery" systems of Georgia, residents of Elbert received grants of land throughout the state. Many moved onto their newly acquired land, gave it to their children who did, or sold it to others who did. The pioneering spirit did not languish there, for many families continued to move, seeking more land, oil, gold, non-farm employment, or freedom of religious expression. Thus the strains and influence of Elbert County families spread throughout Georgia, other parts of the South, and finally throughout the country. For this reason, the marriages of Elbert County should be of interest to many. This definitely seems to have been the case.

In 1929, Mrs. Grace Gillam (John Lee) Davidson, assisted by J. A. LeConte and others, abstracted and compiled the Records of Elbert County, Georgia, including the marriages 1806-1834 which was published in 1930 as Volume III, "Historical Collections of the Georgia Chapters, Daughters of the American Revolution". It was a good record, though there were some errors and omissions; it had an index to brides, but the grooms were in seven different roughly alphabetical/chronological lists. Out of print for some years, it has been reprinted by Georgia Genealogical Reprints.

In 1938, Mrs. Edna (Zack W.) Copeland, under the auspices of the Stephen Heard Chapter, D.A.R., of Elberton, GA compiled the early marriages up through 1829, indexed them, bound them for the Georgia Archives. Her record is very good, though in some parts she does not give the whole marriage date, and some parts she does not give the reference pages. It is indeed unfortunate that her research was not used, or at least referred to, when in 1940, the Stephen Heard Chapter, D.A.R., sponsored the publishing of "The Official History of Elbert County, Georgia" written by John H. McIntosh, who had been appointed to the position of County Historian, authorized to "prepare a complete history of the formation, development and progress of said county from its creation up to February 12, 1933." Since the marriages were included, purportedly up through 1850, one can only wonder why nearly 100 marriages included in the "Historical Collections" up through 1834 did not appear, or why at least 30 marriages in the time period 1836-1850 do not appear! This, too, was out of print for some years, but was republished by Cherokee Publishing Co., of Atlanta in 1968.
